Pony thief convicted!

Packed court witnesses high drama

Ms Ernshaw is brought to court

A packed court-house on Saturday night witnessed two hours of twists and turns as this high profile case finally reached its conclusion.

Key highlights:

- Prosecution shows damning CCTV images of the ponies being taken.
- Evidence presented of a business called Devi's Creamery, providing motive.
- An invoice showing incriminating line items such as 'doctored video'.
- The defence showed a doctored video trying to frame Axelle as the thief, which the judge dismissed.

There were audible gasps around the court room as the honourable Judge Danaira passed a not guilty verdict on the charge of stealing ponies as all the stalls are fitted with biometric locks so this can not be considered unlawful.

The defendant punched the air only to find that the Judge next passed a verdict of guilty on a charge of poneko mistreatment - providing insufficient care to proper nutritional requirements.

The final charge of milk market destabilization was also dismissed.

In passing sentence, the Judge declared "As such it is my judgment that Ms. Ernshaw is to be remanded into the custody of the TT Stable Minimum Security correctional facility, as a stable pony, effective as of today, where she will atone for her crime by working hard to learn at least three pony achievements of which two will be at her choosing. The third achievement, however, will need to involve her learning Flower Dressage, properly."

And in her final words to the court "Lastly, it is the opinion of this court that good behaviour can only be ensured if constant supervision is assured. As such, Ms Enshaw shall remain a TT pony even after she has served her sentence".

It is understood that the convicted felon - now a TT Pony known as Ginger - intends to appeal the latter on sentence.

The flower achievement will be a particular challenge for the convict, as it involves doing a 20 letter pattern blindfolded and she can barely do four with full sight.

So a good night for the Ponizei, striking up a successful guilty verdict and its a timely reminder to people that they are a force to be reckoned with.

An unnamed source from the Ponifia had the following to say "Ponifia appreciates that justice has been done. No crime shall pass unnoticed and everyone has a chance to prove their innocence. As an act of charity, Ponifia declares it has taken care of Devi's legal fees so the girl does not have to worry about it."

Our undercover reporter has revealed that the Ponifia appear have some influence over the Sorrowman law practice.

Your trusty gazette will continue these investigations and report on any findings it reveals.

Easter Egg Hunt

The tracks and trails around Tall Tails have been jam packed full of carts this Easter weekend with treasure-hunters searching high and low to find the precious eggs scattered around the estate.

The Ponzei have taken a dim view of the affair suggesting that this amounts to a serious case of littering and have been busy policing the increased traffic and issuing fines for traffic offences.

A massive hack has been reported on the Easter Egg server. On the last day it went crazy and officials fear the sever appears to have been robbed of its precious prizes.

Shops open at Pike

A number of delightful shops have now opened on the Market Pier (Pearl Bay) at the harbour in Pike to serve all your special interest needs!

Do come pay a visit and support our wonderful local shops:

- CA Creations - Carina Asbrink
- RR Real Restraints - Marine Kelley
- RaS Rise and Shine - Danna Pearl

Pony Caravan: Corsica

For those that are curious, the next Pony caravan route is part of the famous SL race track, but participants are reminded that the caravan is not a race and the Ponizei will be present to control the speed limits and ensure appropriate etiquette is followed.

Rumours are that the After Ride Party location will be at the 8 pines stable and all are welcome to party to the hard tunes of DJ Joline.

So for those of you that survived the alpine adventure, fix your carts and get your pony's ready for this amazing multi-stable event on Sat 10th April at 12PM SLT.

Be sure to join the Pony Caravan Discord for more detailed information <https://discord.gg/vUGwYx36>.
